Board approves contract to fix audit problems

By RICHARD JENKINS
rjenkins@yourdailyglobe.com

IRONWOOD TOWNSHIP — There was only one item on the agenda for Wednesday's special Ironwood Township Board of Trustee meeting, a contract with the Michigan Department of Treasury to hire the department's audit division to resolve the discrepancies with the township's 2015 audit.

At the board's July meeting, it was reported there was approximately $55,000 unaccounted for from the township's water and utilities funds, a discrepancy which made completing the audit difficult.

Wednesday's approval to contract with the state will allow the Department of Treasury to come in and find the missing funds.

"That is the one thing that was holding up this year's filing of the audit, the discrepancy in the water and sewer fund. All the other funds have been gone through," said Treasurer Jyl Olson-DeRosso.

The contract was created by Cary J. Vaughn, who has been one of the township's primary contacts with the Treasury Department, after Vaughn spoke both with township officials and its auditor, Gus Ahonen — with the firm Makela, Pollack and Ahonen.

While the discrepancy has kept Ahonen from completing the audit, Olson-DeRosso said the audit can be filed with a "clean opinion" if the state auditor finds and resolves the discrepancies.

Several trustees questioned whether there should be more of an emphasis investigating the possibility fraud is involved in the discrepancy.

Trustee Kevin Lyons said the township has already had two external reviews that were unable to account for the money — Ahonen and Debbie Bradford, who the board hired to help prepare for the audit and put systems in place to prevent financial issues from arising.

"We've got a lot of red flags," Lyons said. "In particular, we have money right now that is unaccounted for — that our people that work here can't find, that our regular auditor can't find, that Deb Bradford can't find. I think we really owe it to the township and ourselves to say, 'You know what, we're going to look for fraud. If there isn't, great.'"

According to information presented at the meeting, the state's auditor will be more extensive than the previous reviews and if IRON COUNTY Highway Department workers install a temporary bridge over Oronto Creek at Saxon Harbor Wednesday. Once complete, the 80-foot bridge will restore access to the harbor via County A — a necessary step to make sure the harbor and those living there aren't cut off during winter. Among those working on the project were, from left, Dominic Pozzani, Bill Thompson and Kurt Klusman.

Senior broadband summit planned

By RICHARD JENKINS
rjenkins@yourdailyglobe.com

HURLEY — In an effort to gauge the strengths and weaknesses of broadband service in Iron County, particularly the resources offered to senior residents, the Gogebic Range Broadband Committee and University of Wisconsin Extension System are holding an upcoming focus group session.

"The primary reason (the focus group) is coming together is to analyze the resources that are available to the senior citizens of this area. And senior citizens when I say that this includes everybody, because eventually we will all be there," said Norm

McKindles, who chairs the broadband committee. "The purpose of the meeting is to analyze what types of services are available to seniors currently — and also I'm hoping the outcome of the focus group is going to be analyze what the needs are in the future."

The focus group will meet Sept. 29, beginning at 2 p.m., at the Iron County Courthouse.

Funded through a grant from Bader Philanthropies and run by the UW Extension System's Broadband and E-Commerce Education Center, the focus BESSEMER — The finishing touches are being made on Phase 2 of the Western Gateway Trail that will stretch from the Ironwood city limit to Bessemer by the end of the construction season in October.

The authority governing the trail learned Wednesday paving of the trail is complete all the way to the end of Phase 2 on Moore Street, according to Coleman Engineering's Paul Anderson. Also, the observation decks are complete, he said.

Work on fencing the trail where necessary is in progress. Meanwhile, work on the bridges along the trail is on-going. Anderson said furniture, such as benches, is going to be installed

Wet summer good news for fall colors

By RALPH ANSAMI
ransami@yourdailyglobe.com

The ample summer rain and lack of cool weather has delayed the fall color show across the Gogebic Range.

It's the first day of autumn and fall colors are just beginning to show, but a few cold nights could speed up the process.

Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources forestry experts note the peak of fall colors varies from year to year, depending on weather conditions.

The best fall colors usually occur in far northern Wisconsin during the last week of September and first week of October.

"Weather during the growing season is critical for the abundant quantity of leaves needed to provide the potential for an excellent fall color display," Kirsten Held, DNR forestry out-

Superior Springs to open water bottling plant in Marenisco

By TOM STANKARD
tstankard@yourdailyglobe.com

MARENISCO — After a proposal to build a water-bottling plant in Presque Isle, Wis., was turned down, the plants developers are constructing a similar plant 10 miles away in Marenisco.

The Presque Isle town board rejected a request for the plant because of concerns about using water from the nearby Carlin Club well because it could cause a reduction in the aquifer level.

In response, the Marenisco Township board gave the developers 10 acres of land to build, and a connection to sewer and water lines for free.

Construction continued Wednesday on the plant located on Faire Avenue and Sawmill Lane. One of the developers, James Luedtke, said the facility will be 25,200-square feet, but is unsure of how much it will cost in the end. He said it's at least $700,000 "right now."

On the site, Luedtke said there will be a well. In addition, Luedtke said they will take "some water" from the Carlin Club well.

The operating company is Superior Springs, LLC. So far, the facility will bottle two labels, including the "Carlin Club Water" and the "Waters of Marenisco."

Luedtke said the plant would initially process roughly 24,000 gallons of water per day. He said they hope to increase that number. To bottle the water, they will use a pneumatic blow-mold system.

Man accused of assaulting women while driving for Uber, Lyft

ESCONDIDO, Calif. (AP) — Authorities in San Diego County arrested a former driver for Uber and Lyft on suspicion of sexually assaulting several women while he worked for the ride-hailing services, and investigators said Wednesday that there are likely more victims.

The investigation began when an 18-year-old student said she was assaulted after requesting an Uber car at Palomar College on Friday, Escondido Police Lt. Justin Murphy said at a press conference. The woman told police the driver picked her up at the school in a 2014 Chrysler minivan, immediately turned off the Uber app and then drove her to another location where he attacked her, Murphy said. He then drove her to her home. The woman was texting friends saying she felt uncomfortable after getting in the van, before the assault, police said.

Later that day police arrested Jeremy Vague, 37, a former college basketball player who is 7 feet tall, at his home in San Marcos near the college, Murphy said. He was scheduled to be arraigned Wednesday on multiple sexual assault charges.

A phone listing for Vague could not be found. It wasn't immediately known if he has an attorney.

In the course of the investigation, detectives discovered additional suspected victims.

UNREST IN CHARLOTTE

Associated Press

DEMONSTRATORS PROTEST Tuesday's fatal police shooting of Keith Lamont Scott in Charlotte, N.C. on Wednesday. Protesters rushed police in riot gear at a downtown Charlotte hotel and officers have fired tear gas to disperse the crowd. At least one person was injured in the confrontation, though it wasn't immediately clear how. Firefighters rushed in to pull the man to a waiting ambulance.

State of emergency declared in 2nd night of protests

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Authorities in Charlotte tried to quell public anger Wednesday after a police officer shot a black man, but a dusk prayer vigil turned into a march that ended with a protester critically wounded by gunfire and the governor declared a state of emergency in the city.

The man was not shot by police who had massed in riot gear to keep the marchers outside an upscale downtown hotel, Charlotte officials announced on Twitter. City officials originally announced the man was dead but later reversed that statement and said he was on life support.

The second night of violent protests added Charlotte to the list of U.S. cities that have erupted in violence over the death of a black man at the hands of police.

With officials refusing to release any video of the Tuesday shooting of 43-year-old Keith Lamont Scott, anger built as two starkly different versions emerged: Police say Scott disregarded repeated demands to drop his gun, while neighborhood residents say he was holding a book, not a weapon, as he waited for his son to get off the school bus.

The killing inflamed racial tensions in a city that seemed to have steered clear of the troubles that engulfed other places.

Gov. Pat McCrory announced late Wednesday he was accepting a request from Charlotte's police chief, declaring a state of emergency and calling in the National Guard and state troopers to help restore order and protect downtown.

Destructive protests Tuesday that included shutting down eight-lane Interstate 85 and burning the contents of a tractor-trailer turned violent Wednesday. Along with the man critically injured, paramedics said two other people and six police officers suffered minor injuries.

Wednesday's protest started as a downtown prayer vigil, but an angry group left the peaceful event and marched through downtown Charlotte.

They shouted "black lives matter" and "hands up; don't shoot" while cursing at officers with bicycles blocking intersections in Charlotte's flashy and vibrant downtown. As the protesters approached the Omni hotel, officers in riot gear lined up outside arm in arm and a few marchers threw bottles and clods of dirt.

Immediately after the shooting, police began firing flash grenades and protesters threw fireworks. Police then fired tear gas, and the crowd of hundreds dispersed.

But not all the marchers left. Police in riot gear then began marching arm in arm through downtown Charlotte intersections, shooting tear gas at people who charged them. At least one protester knocked down a television reporter during a live shot and several other media outlets said on Twitter they had employees taken to hospitals.

There were hints earlier Wednesday that Charlotte would suffer a second night of destruction. As Charlotte's white mayor and black police chief stood at City Hall and appealed for calm, African-American leaders who said they were speaking for Scott's family held their own news conference near where he was killed Tuesday, reminding the crowd of other shootings and abuses of black men.

John Barnett, who runs a civil rights group called True Healing Under God, or THUG, warned that the video might be the only way for the police to regain the community's trust: "Just telling us this is still under investigation is not good enough for the windows of the Wal-Mart."

On Tuesday night, dozens of demonstrators threw rocks at police and reporters, damaged squad cars, closed part of Interstate 85, and looted and set on fire a stopped truck. Authorities used tear gas to break up the protests. Sixteen officers suffered minor injuries. One person was arrested.

The violence broke out shortly after a woman who appeared to be Scott's daughter posted a profanity-laced, hourlong video on Facebook, saying her father had an unspecified disability and was unarmed. In the footage, she is at the cordoned-off shooting scene, yelling at officers.

"My daddy is dead!" the woman screams on the video, which has not been authenticated by The Associated Press.

On Wednesday morning, Charlotte-Mecklenburg Police Chief Kerr Putney said: "It's time to change the narrative, because I can tell you from the facts that the story's a little bit different as to how it's been portrayed so far, especially through social media."

The police chief said officers were serving arrest warrants on another person when they saw Scott get out of a vehicle with a handgun.

In Loving Memory of
TOREY GERBIG
who passed away 12 years ago,
September 22, 2004.

To My Son, I Sometimes Wish
I sometimes wish you were still small.
Not yet so big and strong and tall.
For when I think of yesterday,
I close my eyes and see you play.
I often miss that little boy.
Who pestered me to buy a toy,
Who filled my days with pure delight.
From early morn to late at night.

We watch our children change and grow
As seasons come then quickly go.
But our God has a perfect plan
To shape a boy into a man.

Today my son I'm proud of you for all the thoughtful things you do.
I'll love you till my days are done.
And I'm so grateful you're my son.

Ottawa National Forest proposes recreation areas fee changes

IRONWOOD — The Ottawa National Forest is interested in hearing comments on a proposal to begin charging, or to increase, fees at signature recreation sites. Fees are assessed based on the level of amenities and services provided, cost of operations and maintenance and market assessment. These fees are proposed and will be determined upon further analysis and public comment. The Ottawa's proposal includes changing the rental fee structure of Camp Nesbit Organizational Camp and offering a new day use option; changing the fee structure of seasonal docking space at Black River Harbor; a daily rental fee for the Lake Ottawa and the Clark Lake Day-Use Buildings; and increasing backcountry camping fees in Sylvania Wilderness. The proposal also includes a day-use pass that covers the three signature recreation areas on the Forest, Black River Harbor Recreation Area, Lake Ottawa Recreation Area and the Sylvania Recreation Area. Specifically, the following fees are proposed: — A proposed new fee at Lake Ottawa and Black River Harbor recreation areas of $5 daily, $30 annually. The current fee of $5 daily for Sylvania Recreation Area would remain, but the annual fee at Sylvania would be increased from $20 to $30. A new annual pass would include all three sites for $30, eliminating the stand-alone Sylvania annual pass. These fees would be charged from May 15, to Sept. 30, with a fee-free day offered each week on Thursdays. — Proposed fee increase for seasonal personal watercraft docking at Black River Harbor, from May 1, to Oct. 15. Prices would be $28/ft., for the dock space south of the boat launch and $30/ft., for dock space north of the boat launch. Permits will be issued annually using a randomized lottery drawing. No preference will be given to previous permit holders. These fees will not go into effect until all dock reconstruction is complete. Please note that the fee proposal only addresses personal boats, not commercial charter boats. Any vessel that is used for commercial charter services will be issued a Special-Use Permit for Outfitting and Guiding on National Forest Lands (OG Permit). Dock assignments will be a part of the OG permit and they will be placed only on the north dock. Any available slips on the north docks that aren't utilized by the Commercial outfitters and guides will go into the annual lottery and be available for larger private vessels. These fees will not go into effect until all dock reconstruction is complete. — The Lake Ottawa Pavilion and Clark Lake Day-Use Building would be available for $100 per day. These fees would only be charged from May 15, to Sept. 30. However, people will be able to reserve the buildings year-round. This will eliminate conflicts with multiple groups setting up and using the space on the same dates. — Sylvania Backcountry Campsites would increase from $10 to $15 per night. These developed campsites within the wilderness area have hardened tent site, a fire ring, and a site marker. Camping is only allowed at these developed campsites in Sylvania Wilderness. — A new fee is proposed at Camp Nesbit for day use at $400 per day. This includes use of the dining hall, recreation hall, beach, restroom and shower facilities, and archery range. Currently Camp Nesbit is not available for day use only. — In addition, the Forest proposes changing the current overnight fees at Camp Nesbit to make them more standardized. The proposed fee is based on group size rather than qualifications that may be difficult to determine. The proposed fees are: $600 per night for groups less than 50 people, $750 per night for groups ranging from 51 to 100 people, and $850 per night groups ranging from 101-144 people. These fees would cover full use of Camp Nesbit including utilities and clean-up.

Camp Nesbit's season generally runs from mid-April through mid-October, but can vary by year. Current fees are based on the type of user groups who rent the facility and vary from $7 to $12 per person per night. Factors such as economic status, type of group, and purpose of the camp visit determine the price. Current fees also include custodial fees of $60 per day and a utility fees of $67 per day. The Lake Ottawa and Clark Lake Day Use buildings and Camp Nesbit would be placed on the National Recreation Reservation Site for rental information and reservations. Sylvania Backcountry campsites are currently available on this reservation system. All other fee sites would be self-serve by paying on site or by stopping by one of our Forest Offices to obtain an annual pass. Pictures of the proposed fee sites can be found on the Ottawa National Forest webpage. Comments on the fee proposals will be accepted, until Nov. 30, 2016. Please send your comments to Linda L. Jackson, Forest Supervisor, Ottawa National Forest, E6248 Hwy 2 East, Ironwood, MI 49938. For more information, questions or comments about any of these fee proposals, contact Lisa Klaus, Public Affairs Officer 906-932-1330 ext. 328.

NMU Police Academy to host meeting at GCC
 IRONWOOD — The Northern Michigan University Regional Police Academy will hold an informational meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 28, at Gogebic Community College. The session begins at 6 p.m., in room 012 of the Solin Center. It will last about 45 minutes. Attendees will receive an overview of the next academy, which runs from May to August 2017. Other topics that will be covered include Michigan Commission on Law Enforcement Standards (MCOLES) requirements to enter the academy and NMU requirements to attend the academy. There will also be a question-and-answer period. For more information, call 906-227-1408.

Bob Jacquart to hold presentation in Mercer
 MERCER, Wis. — Bob Jacquart will present "A Peak Experience: Bringing back a world-class ski jump to Copper Peak" on Tuesday, Oct. 4, from 7:15 to 8 p.m., at the Mercer Community Center in.

His talk will be preceded by a potluck starting at 6:30 p.m., and followed by a business meeting for Iron County Recreations Enthusiasts (ICORE) from 8 to 8:30 p.m. Renovation of the Copper Peak ski flying jump north of Ironwood, Mich., is underway for a September 2017 Federation of International Skiing event. The jump is being resurfaced and an artificial surface landing zone is being installed among other improvements to accommodate year-round ski flying and training. Copper Peak is one of only six sites in the world — and the only one in the United States — able to host elite ski flying events. Ski flying differs from ski jumping in that it involves hills longer than 180 meters.

Clash of cultures fuels fear

WASHINGTON — This last weekend — the early-autumn days spanning from Sept. 16 to 19 — marks in almost perfect miniature the potential horrors of cultural hatred let loose across the American land.

The events of these dark days clarified not only several of the possible “terrorist” tragedies of the type Americans have so feared in recent years, but also the foreign countries involved.

For now, think not only of the patterns revealed over the weekend, but of the descriptions first given of the malefactors and of the countries and movements that lurk like dark clouds in the background of their — and our — minds:

— On Saturday morning, a pipe bomb exploded in Seaside Park, New Jersey, near the starting area of a charity race. A suspect was not arrested until Monday after a shootout with police, when (of all things) he was found asleep in the doorway of a bar. Enter Ahmad Khan Rahami.

The police work was little short of brilliant, but at first there was confusion about Rahami’s personality pedigree. Born in Afghanistan, he was described by locals as “reserved,” or as a “quiet young man who served fried chicken” or a “typical immigrant” (God forbid!).

— Meanwhile, a bomb had exploded in New York City’s Chelsea neighborhood, with a second explosive found nearby. Police named Rahami as a suspect in both the Chelsea and New Jersey bombings.

By now we were finding out more about the lad who worked at his family’s ironically named First American chicken restaurant. It seems that, despite his above-noted homely demeanor, he had been able to garner the necessary energy to travel to Afghanistan and also to Pakistan. Not only to Afghanistan in general, but to Kandahar in particular; and not only Pakistan in general, but to ism,” because he is the candidate who has seriously introduced immigration into the American conversation. He, of course, wants to take extraordinarily strong measures to keep Muslims out and America’s virtues “in.”

We should support neither one. The truth is we are faced with countries where many people hate us and wish us poorly. (Much of it is our fault. Funny, isn’t it, how other peoples just hate it when we invade their countries?)

But for now, we are where we are, and it is only sensible to restrict emigration to the U.S. from countries with large groups of people who feel they are truly at war with us. It is perhaps inevitable that the Rahamis of New Jersey and the Adans of St. Cloud — and the Tsarnaevs of the Boston Marathon massacre or the Farooks and Malikis of the San Bernardino killings — harbor deep waves of cultural hatred for America.

If we had any sense, we would be profoundly concerned about our OWN cultural sense of ourselves — and about our own identity. For that is what the entire immigration talk is really about. It is why England voted to leave the E.U. and why Angela Merkel just lost her first Berlin vote ever; and it is why even Mexico has a virtual police wall on its southern border to keep others out.

Americans want only what other peoples have always wanted: They want to feel they control their lives, and too much uncontrolled immigration, particularly from hostile countries or parts of them, threatens Americans more than anything.

An American does not have to be a “Trumpist” to feel all of this or to know it. One only has to be a commonsensical citizen of our nation.

In Their Opinion

Get the Zika bill done now, Mr. Speaker

Funding to fight the Zika virus isn’t about abortion, Obamacare or the Confederate battle flag.

At least it shouldn’t be. And it isn’t about which political party in Washington will look good or bad before the fall election.

Emergency funding to fight the spread of Zika is about preventing terrible brain damage and birth defects in newborns — including shrunken heads.

Congress should stop playing games and pass a clean Zika bill aimed squarely at diagnosing and preventing the disease so it doesn’t devastate more children and families.

Zika, which is transmitted by mosquitoes and sex, is expanding in the United States, especially in Florida. And about 40 cases are confirmed in Wisconsin, involving people who have traveled outside the state to areas where Zika-carrying mosquitoes flourish.

Congress should approve $1.1 billion — without political strings attached — to help scientists and health officials defeat the disease.

House Speaker Paul Ryan, R-Janesville, must rise above the petty politics that dominate Washington and rally his members to support a solid funding package that doesn’t go after Planned Parenthood or cut Obamacare or monkey with regulation of the Confederate flag. Those divisive and distracting political issues should be set aside for now.

GOP colleagues are right to search for existing dollars to pay for a Zika response, rather than borrowing $1.1 billion and adding it to the national debt. That’s the fiscally responsible thing to do.

But the president asked for Zika funding back in February. And a spending bill is still stalled.

If Democrats won’t offset Zika funding by reducing spending elsewhere, we understand Ryan’s frustration. But given how many months have passed without an agreement, borrowing the money is better than allowing Zika to go unchecked. That’s because infected babies will cost far more to treat and care for than aggressively moving to prevent further infection.

U.S. Rep. Curt Clawson, R-Florida, whose constituents are on the front lines of the scary affliction, understands well the need for swift action.

“If we don’t move to spend a little bit now, we’re going to spend a lot more later,” he said this week, according to The Washington Times.

“We can’t spend a billion or two for babies, and for pregnant women?” he asked. “I mean, where’s our priorities?”

Good question. Speaker Ryan and the rest of Congress should set aside their political squabbles and quickly pass a Zika bill.

Voting Democrat will help America get stronger

To the Editor:
Some voters may be undecided as to whom to vote for in November. Clarity may be in order.

Both parties want to cut taxes.

The Democrats want to cut taxes for the middle class and low income families.

Republicans want to cut taxes for low, middle, high income and corporations.

On social issues, Republicans are conservative. They oppose gay marriage, social security, welfare, child care, women’s rights to own and control their own bodies and health care for everyone. They favor unlimited ownership of guns and automatic weapons and want to lower the minimum wage.

Democrats have brought America the 40-hour work week, overtime pay, union benefits, higher wages, workplace safety regulations, unemployment benefits, social security, Medicare and Medicaid for the less fortunate.

Both parties want a strong, financially healthy America.

Conservative Republicans believe government regulations inhibit business growth. Taxes are an unnecessary burden on profitability and that contributing to social welfare for the less fortunate is encouraging slovenliness.

Progressive Democrats want to put America back to work with rebuilding our roads, bridges, schools, airports, high speed rail from coast to coast and north to south, and solar/wind power renewable energy.

They believe in healthcare for all citizens. Without insurance for all, those who pay cash or have insurance, pay higher fees to make up the losses to the provider.

For more than just the past eight years, the Republicans have suppressed the rebuilding of America, saying in so many words that America doesn’t need rebuilding, yet bridges, pipelines and water systems continue to fail all over these United States.

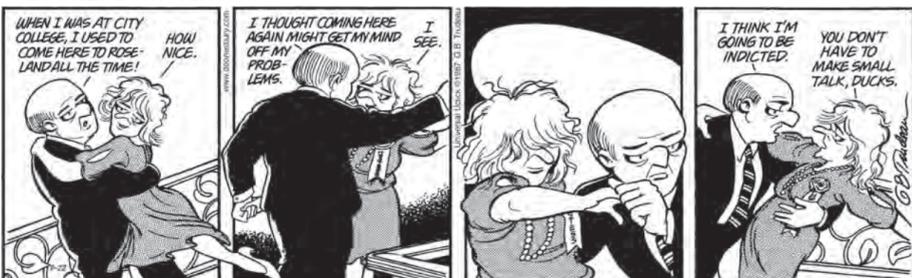

Our schools need serious, serious rebuilding.

The Democratic party in the White House and Congress is just what this country needs to become competitive, healthy, and strong again.

With the Democrats voted into Congress, there will be jobs. There will be jobs.

Audit

fraud is discovered during the audit, the audit would be turned over to a different unit in the department.

Other board officials felt pushing for an investigation into possible fraud was premature and they should follow the process the state was recommending. They also argued that the state would surely investigate any fraud it found even though it wasn't specifically auditing for that.

"This is how Treasury (wants) to start this process," Clerk Mary Segalin said. "My personal feeling is, this is where we start. ... If there is fraud, these people know what they are doing. They're not just any old accountant coming in here, these people are trained to do what they do." Segalin continued, "I would not jump the gun with a fraud auditor right away."

Supervisor Al Baron agreed, saying Vaughn recommended this step rather than pursuing a fraud audit unless the township already had evidence that fraud occurred, saying the other way would be putting "the cart ahead of the horse."

"In talking to him, this is his recommendation (on how) to move forward with the problem that we have," Baron said.

The state auditor is expected to begin work in early October. The contract approves a rate of $115-per-hour, with a maximum of 80 hours of work. Segalin said the board can revisit the contract if more than 80 hours are needed.

Several board members expressed a desire to have the auditor speak to each board member individually, although no one was sure whether this would happen.

According to information presented in the meeting, the state auditor will also have the ability to delve into the township's finances from previous years if necessary to discover the problem, although several trustees questioned why this would be needed as the township approved an adjustment that "reset the books" following the 2014 audit.

The motion to contract with the state passed unanimously.

soon. Concrete ramps at roadways are also scheduled to be completed soon, he said.

The current contract completion deadline is Oct. 12, according to Anderson.

Ironwood Chamber of Commerce Director Michael Meyer congratulated the authority for the "rapid" completion of the trail.

"This trail system is going to be a big pull for this area," he said.

Meanwhile, the authority is negotiating Phase 3 of the trail extending to Ramsay.

In Bessemer, they are continuing to talk with Pat Steiger to allow the trail to pass through his property on the western end of the city.

During the Aug. 17 meeting, authority member Robert Coleman said Steiger pulled his property "off the table as long as Kathy Whitburn is mayor."

From Ramsay, the fourth and final phase is expected to extend the trail to Sunday Lake in Wakefield.

Once completed, the trail is expected to be the western end of the Iron Belle Trail — which will run to Belle Isle in Detroit.

The Friends of the Iron Belle Trail, which helps maintain the trail, will have a fall planning meeting today at 6 p.m. at the Ironwood Memorial Building. On Saturday, Oct. 1, the group will host a fall trail cleanup day from 8 a.m. until noon. Food and refreshments will be served.

Then, on Monday, Oct. 24, there will be a ribbon-cutting ceremony for Phase 2 of the trail beginning at noon.

verse in the various languages and that is part of the grade the student receives.

Patritto showed the school board a video of four Hurley students who could make small talk in Italian after just one week of learning the language.

"Their young brains absorb languages," she told the school board.

Many Hurley High School students are of Italian and Finnish descent, with some students having both ethnic backgrounds.

Patritto said the Finnish language is one of the hardest to learn because it's not similar to any other language. For example, there are no short articles, such as "the" or "a."

Languages explored through the class also include French, German and Hungarian.

Patritto shows the students how the languages are structured and the student's job is to learn basics of conversations and everyday vocabulary.

At the end of the quarter, an international party will celebrate the students' new language skills.

"We use preforms that look like little test tubes. We heat them up to about 190 degrees and blows the preform into a 500-milliliter or 1-liter plastic bottle through air compression," Luedtke said.

Grocer Trygve Solberg is another developer of the plant. The developers plans to sell the bottled water in Solberg's stores and across the nation.

If the project stays on schedule, Luedtke said he hopes the facility will be open by mid-December. When it's up and running, the plant plans to employ eight to 12 local people. In a year, the plant wants to hire about 30 employees, he said.

"We want to try to support the local area as much as possible," Luedtke said.

"We need the jobs here," said Richard Bouvette, township supervisor.

WDNR to collect deer heads for tests

RHINELANDER, Wis. — In cooperation with local businesses, the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources will collect deer heads for chronic wasting disease surveillance testing in Oneida, Vilas and Forest counties during archery and gun hunting seasons.

People who harvest adult deer within the counties are asked to consider submitting a sample for CWD testing.

The efforts are in response to two deer harvested in an Oneida County hunting preserve testing positive for CWD in late 2015. The first step toward protecting the wild deer herd in the area was the legislatively mandated enactment of a baiting and feeding ban in the three counties on Jan. 11 to reduce risks for disease transmission.

Steps that followed for the targeted area of the state included developing sampling strategies, including car-killed deer, sick and injured deer reports and deer harvested during regular hunting seasons.

Samples will be collected from sick adult deer exhibiting signs of CWD in all three counties. Everyone is encouraged to keep an eye out for deer that appear sick or act abnormally so biologists can assess if symptoms are consistent with CWD infection.

Sick deer can be reported to the Woodruff, Rhineland, and Florence DNR offices or to DNR biologists at:

—Vilas County: Michele Woodford, 751-356-5211, ext. 207.

—Oneida County: Jeremy Holtz, 715-365-8999.

—Forest County: Chuck McCullough, 715-623-4190, ext. 3131.

THE INSTALLATION of a new 220-foot communication on Radar Hill in Upson continues Wednesday, as Ryan Newberry, left, and John Wehe, with OK Tower and Guiding Service of Stetsonville, Wis., tighten one of the tower's guy-wires. Once installed, the tower will house communication equipment for Iron County fire, EMS and law enforcement services, as well as state and federal equipment. The tower will also hold broadband Internet technology that was funded through a 2015 broadband expansion grant that was part of the effort to expand high-speed Internet services in the northern part of Iron County.

group will discuss six general questions. The questions cover how seniors use technology, why they use it and the obstacles they face.

Additional questions may be brought up during the discussion, McKindles said, adding older generations are becoming increasingly receptive to technology.

"It's surprising to see how many people that didn't grow up with technology are embracing it now. It's hard to believe how that's changed over time. There are people in their 70s and 80s that are technology literate. And so I feel they need to have resources available so they can (stay) in their homes and (be) functional as long as they can," McKindles said. "My understanding is there are technologies out there that I am not even aware of that can help people stay in their homes and be functional citizens, without having to go into a nursing home, for a longer period of time."

While cataloguing current resources is important, McKindles really wants to focus on areas of improvement.

"I don't think looking at what we have now is good enough. I think we have to be proactive and look at what the needs are down the road," he said. "Because if we're not looking

Hurley zoning session Monday

HURLEY —The city of Hurley's Planning and Zoning Committee will meet Monday to review and make a recommendation on a request for a single-chair cosmetology business in a home.

While organizers have reached out to a variety of groups in the area, there is still space if people are interested in attending. Those who do want to attend need to RSVP. McKindles said, which can be done by emailing him at mck@up.net or calling the Iron County UW Extension Office at 715-561-2695.

Broadband advocates have taken steps in recent years to improve high-speed Internet access in the county, primarily through applying for Broadband Expansion Grants through the Wisconsin Public Service Commission. Work is currently being completed on a trio of towers designed to expand service in the northern part of the county, a project which is funded by a grant the county received last year.

It was recently announced the county, through the Iron County Resource Development Association, had received its second grant through the Public Service Commission.

This grant is for $79,101 in grant funds and an additional local match of $80,100 in cash and in-kind installation costs. The project will locate towers near Pine Lake, Springstead, Popko Circle in Mercer and Saxon Harbor.

"This grant shares the opportunity (of improved broadband service) for other people down in the southern part of the county, Mercer and north of Mercer specifically," McKindles said.

The inclusion of the Saxon Harbor portion of the project was designed to provide campers with improved WiFi and was added prior to the July 11 storm that caused flooding that destroyed the harbor. It was kept in the application as it will not only benefit those using the harbor after it is rebuilt — potentially bringing in extra revenue to the county through increased usage of the harbor — but could also be utilized during the rebuilding process, according to Iron County Development Zone Coordinator Kelly Klein.

"There's going to be a period of construction (at Saxon Harbor) and it could be useful during that period," Klein said.

POLICE REPORTS

City of Ironwood

The Ironwood Public Safety Department received an early Wednesday complaint about an Ironwood man who claimed to be followed by two black men.

Nathan Noble, of 133 W. Oak St., was contacted by Michigan State Police in Ironwood, after first being followed in Hurley, according to an IPSD report.

Noble said the men were probably just messing around and he didn't want to pursue the matter, however officers discovered Noble was wanted on a criminal bench warrant issued out of Houghton County for failure to appear for a court date.

He was transported to the Gogebic County Jail in Bessemer to be picked up by Houghton County authorities.

Country song mashup celebrates CMA's 50th anniversary

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Music awards shows love to mashup songs and artists together, but the Country Music Association took the mashup to a new level for their upcoming 50th anniversary.

"Forever Country" features 30 country singers in a blend of three of the genre's most beloved tunes and an innovative music video that highlights the breadth and history of country music. The song was released digitally and to radio and a sneak peek of the music video premiered on ABC's "Dancing with the Stars" on Tuesday night in advance of the Nov. 2 awards show.

That daunting task of combining all those voices together — including Faith Hill, Carrie Underwood, Luke Bryan and Miranda Lambert — was given to two Grammy winners: producer and songwriter Shane McAnally, who has crafted songs with Sam Hunt and Kacey Musgraves, and director Joseph Kahn, who has worked with Taylor Swift, Eminem and Britney Spears.

"We had a list of about 40 songs, mostly CMA winners, songs that have won song of the year or at least been nominated, and songs that sort of covered a universal theme that could sound like a love song to our genre," McAnally said.

The songs chosen were John Denver's "Take Me Home, Country Roads," Willie Nelson's "On the Road Again," and Dolly Parton's "I Will Always Love You." But McAnally was hesitant to change too much of Parton's country-pop crossover classic, which was also famously recorded by Whitney Houston.

"I will say that 'I Will Always Love You' was one that was really hard for me to imagine in the mix because I didn't want to mess with that song," McAnally said. "It feels sacred."

Featured singers include Parton and Nelson as well as other CMA winners such as Blake Shelton, Reba, George Strait, Little Big Town, Jason Aldean, Eric Church, Alan Jackson, Tim McGraw, Ronnie Milsap, Brad Paisley, Charley Pride, Keith Urban and Trisha Yearwood. Even Randy Travis, who is recovering from a stroke, makes an appearance in the video.

Kahn then had to figure out how to shoot all the artists, who were only singing a line at a time, and weave it into a visual story.

"I had to shoot everyone separately because of the way the timing worked out," Kahn said. "But at the end of the video they all look like they appear together."

Even with all his producing experience, McAnally got a little nervous working with legends like Strait and Parton. He recalled that Parton, who is notoriously early for appointments, was already at the microphone when McAnally arrived at the studio to record her part of the song.

"I hadn't even met her, and I had to meet her through the glass," McAnally recalled. "Well, I have to go ahead and get this out of my body and say, 'I don't know how I am supposed to direct you singing 'I Will Always Love You,' but I am going to do my best.'"

Kahn, a Texas native, said shooting Parton gave him a "what am I doing here?" moment on set.

"I never get nervous around anyone," Kahn said. "I have literally worked with everybody and Dolly Parton made me nervous."

Caro to receive honorary National Book Award medal

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Caro is this year's winner of a National Book Award medal for lifetime achievement, given for "Distinguished Contribution to American Letters."

The 80-year-old historian, known for his epic, acclaimed biographies of former President Lyndon Johnson and municipal builder Robert Moses, was praised Wednesday by the National Book Foundation for his "exceptional work and significant impact on American literature." Previous honorees include Toni Morrison, Don DeLillo and Ursula K. Le Guin. "Caro's in-depth and long term exploration of the lives of two prominent men makes a much larger contribution to American Letters than it might seem at first glance," Lisa Lucas, executive director of the National Book Foundation, said in a statement. "His life's work, and his stunning prose, teaches us to better understand political influence, American democracy, and the true power of biography."

Caro will receive his award Nov. 16 at the annual National Book Awards ceremony and dinner benefit in Manhattan, where winners in the competitive categories of fiction, nonfiction, poetry and young people's literature will be announced.

A longtime New York City resident, Caro is one of the world's most prominent historians even though he has published just five books. "The Power Broker," his landmark biography of Moses, is standard reading for city historians and planners and has been praised by President Barack Obama, who once said he was "mesmerized" by it. Caro's writings on Johnson, four volumes so far, are best-sellers widely read in Washington and have inspired some legislators to seek his advice.

Accepting awards has almost become routine for Caro. His resume includes two Pulitzers, a competitive National Book Award (for "Master of the Senate"), three National Book Critic Circle prizes and a National Humanities Medal, presented to him in 2010 by Obama. He won at least five awards just for his most recent Johnson book, "The Passage of Power," published in 2012.

Officials estimate 650,000 attended Cincinnati's Oktoberfest

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati police estimate 650,000 people attended the city's annual Oktoberfest Zinzinnati over the weekend, tying previous attendance records.

The event celebrated its 40th anniversary this year and ran from Friday through Sunday.

The number of attendees this year ties with estimated attendance records set in 2014 and 2015. Transit officials say the weekend also saw a boom in streetcar ridership. The Cincinnati Bell Connector recorded about 29,000 rides.

The event put on by the Cincinnati USA Regional Chamber had been moved from its usual Fifth Street location to a new spot at Second and Third Streets.

No police incidents were reported during the event.

reach specialist, said. "In many areas of the state, 2016 has produced a healthy crop of leaves. Already, a few red maples have started to turn in northern Wisconsin, signaling the start of the annual show within the next couple of weeks," she said.

"To have the most brilliant and vibrant fall color display, a series of fall days filled with bright sunshine and cool, but frost-free evenings, are required," she said.

Duration of fall colors is related to the intensity of wind and rain during late September and October, Held said. High winds and driving rains cause significant numbers of the leaves to fall, which can shorten the display.

Held points out while the fall color show is a huge attraction for tourists, the economic impact of the forests is even more significant.

That tops Michigan, which hit the $20 billion mark this year.

Chicago to hire hundreds more officers to combat violence

Associated Press

PROTESTERS AGAINST the new hiring plan by the Chicago Police Department protest outside the headquarters Wednesday, in Chicago. Chicago's police department will add nearly 1,000 new positions over the next two years, its superintendent announced Wednesday, saying it'll help the city deal with a dramatic increase in shootings and homicides. But it isn't clear where the money will come from in a city that's grappling with financial woes that threaten basic services.

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago's police department will add 970 new positions over the next two years, its superintendent announced Wednesday, saying the move will help combat the dramatic increase in shootings and homicides that has left thousands injured and hundreds dead this year.

But Mayor Rahm Emanuel didn't explain how the city, which is grappling with financial woes that threaten basic services, will pay for the hiring spree.

Superintendent Eddie Johnson said at a news conference that he asked for additional officers and Emanuel "delivered." The plan, which will start in January 2017, is to add 516 new officers, 92 field-training officers, 200 detectives, 112 sergeants and 50 lieutenants. The changes will increase the number of sworn officers from about 12,500 to about 13,500; Johnson said vacancies will be filled on top of the new hires.

"I'm confident that these added resources will make us better," Johnson said. He also acknowledged CPD's issues and said accountability is key. "We'll train and mentor officers who make honest mistakes, but I will not tolerate intentional misconduct," he said.

Johnson said he did not receive details from the mayor's office about how the city would pay for what his spokesman later said was the largest hiring effort since at least the 1990s, only that the mayor had assured him it could be done. But the city's budget office confirmed that the price tag for each first-year police officer, when salary, benefits and supervision are factored in, will cost the city $138,000 a year — a figure that when multiplied by 970 adds up to close to $134 million.

When asked about how the city would pay for it, Emanuel would only say that Chicago "will have the resources."

"That is a question that remains unanswered," Alderman Danny Solis said before the news conference, adding that Emanuel recently assured him the hiring can be done without raising taxes; the council approved new water and sewer tax increases earlier this month.

The plan marks a departure for Emanuel, who has relied on overtime — more than $100 million annually in recent years — to combat crime, arguing that it was an effective and less expensive way to combat crime than hiring more officers.

Both Solis and fellow Alderman Howard Brookins Jr. said that whatever the cost for the new plan, it might not add up to all that much more money than the city is already paying in overtime. Though overtime will certainly not disappear, Brookins said he expected it to decrease significantly.

Brookins, who has expressed concern about the effects increased overtime was having on officers, thinks the new hires may reduce stress among the force, which could in turn cut down on the number of citizen complaints and police misconduct lawsuits that the city has settled for tens of millions of dollars.

Johnson seemed to agree. "I am a firm believer that if people are tired and overworked they start making bad decisions," he said in an interview after his news conference.

The president of the Chicago police union applauded Wednesday's announcement.

"We have been pushing for more bodies since this administration took office ... and I don't know if it was me or all the crime or the silent majority being heard that they need and want more police presence," said Fraternal Order of Police President Dean Angelo. "Any move toward an increase in manpower is appreciated by us and law-abiding citizens."

Chicago has seen a dramatic rise in the number of shootings and homicides this year. In August alone, there were 90 homicides, marking the first time in two decades there have been that many in a single month. Overall, the city has recorded more than 500 homicides this year — higher than all of 2015 — and is on pace to climb past the 600-homicide mark for the first time since 2003. There have also been more than 2,500 shooting incidents so far this year, about 700 more than in the same time period last year.

Vegas lawyer's 'Black Lives' protest resembles Ohio case

LAS VEGAS (AP) — A deputy public defender in Las Vegas who defied a judge's request that she not wear a "Black Lives Matter" pin in court has become the latest voice of protest in a national debate over police brutality and race relations.

Erika Ballou's protest comes two months after a black defense attorney in Ohio was arrested on a contempt of court charge for wearing a similar pin in a municipal courtroom — prompting a debate about where to draw the line between courtroom decorum, political speech and free expression.

Youngstown, Ohio, defense attorney Andrea Burton said Wednesday she settled a federal civil rights lawsuit on Sept. 1 with an agreement that allows her to wear the pin in the courthouse — but not in the courtroom.

"We agreed to apply a dress code evenly, so that officers also can't be in a courtroom with black tape over their badges," Burton said during a vacation in Las Vegas.

Ballou, who is black, balked Tuesday at Clark County District Court Judge Douglas Herndon's request that she remove the small round "Black Lives Matter" pin from her blouse while representing a white domestic battery defendant at a sentencing hearing.

The protest is expected to continue Thursday, when Ballou and attorneys who back her protest say they intend to wear "Black Lives Matter" pins again in Herndon's courtroom. Clark County Public Defender Phil Kohn said he'll be with Burton to support her position.

"If you think that Black Lives Matter is anti-police, ask yourself if police are anti-Black Lives," Ballou said in a written statement prepared last weekend, after she learned the Las Vegas police union sent a letter to judges complaining about what the union executive termed "Black Lives Matter" propaganda in courtrooms.

"In a free country, I shouldn't be afraid of the police," Ballou said in her statement, "but I am."

If Burton's case provides an example, Ballou may not win permission to wear the pin in court. John Juhasz Jr., a lawyer who represented Youngstown Municipal Court Judge Robert Millich in the Ohio case, said federal case law he found shows that judges have broad discretion over decorum and defense lawyers are in court to represent their clients' interests, not their own.

Police: 2 asphyxiated kids among 4 dead in Detroit area

DETROIT (AP) — The bodies of two young children and two teenagers were found at a Detroit-area home early Wednesday after a man called 911 to report that he had killed them, police said.

The same man, Gregory V. Green, had served 16 years in prison for second-degree murder — the fatal stabbing of his pregnant wife in 1991, records show.

Police summoned to a Dearborn Heights home early Wednesday found a staggering scene. Two girls, ages 4 and 5, were asphyxiated in a car using exhaust, while a 17-year-old girl and a 19-year-old male were fatally shot, Lt. Michael Krause said.

Green's wife was shot and stabbed but is in stable condition and is expected to survive. Green, 49, is in custody.

"The (911) call was made by the suspect himself. ... All of this seemed to have stemmed from a domestic violence-related incident," Capt. Michael Petri told reporters.

Police haven't released any names. But local media identified the suspect as Green, the father of the youngest victims, and said the injured woman was Faith Green, who was the mother of all four.

Court records reviewed by The Associated Press show Faith

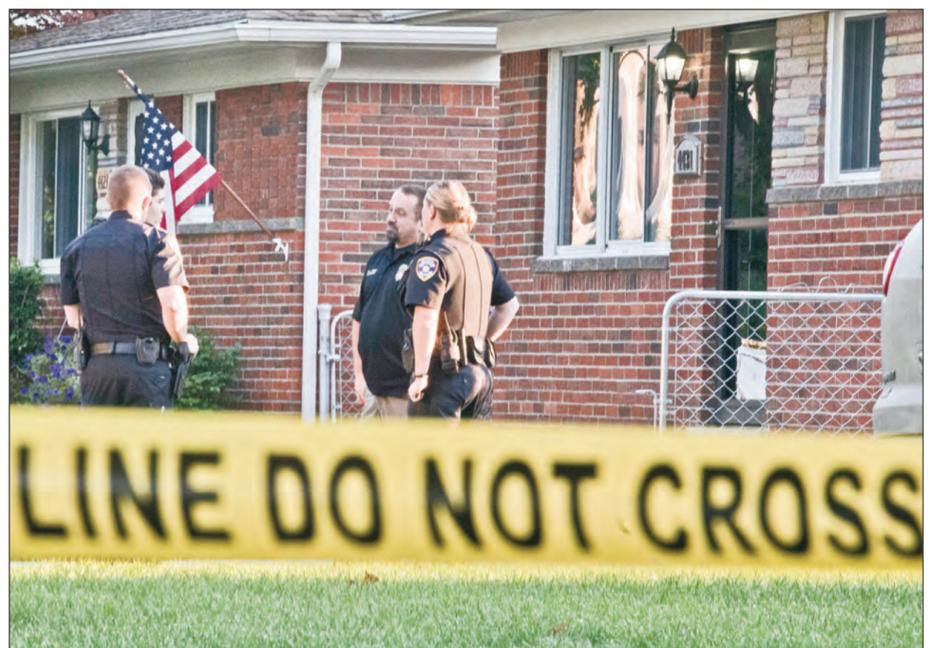

Green filed for divorce in August, citing a "breakdown in the marriage relationship." They were married in 2010. Her lawyer, Harvey Beck, spoke briefly with the AP, calling the deaths "a terrible situation," but declining further comment.

Faith Green also filed for divorce from Gregory Green in 2013 but no action was taken and the case was dismissed. She had asked for a personal protection order that same year but a judge dismissed the allegation as "insufficient."

Gregory Green was released from prison in 2008 after his fifth request for parole in the death of another wife.

He was rejected earlier because he "had not shown remorse for his crime, had not gained adequate insight and had a lack of empathy," Corrections Department spokesman Chris Gautz said. "After being denied four times, he completed several cognitive-based programs."

In Dearborn Heights, Krause said officers arriving at the family's home found a car parked outside with a hose hooked to the exhaust. Police believe the youngest children whose bodies were found on the ground floor of the home were asphyxiated with carbon monoxide inside that vehicle. Police found the bodies of the teens in the basement.

DEARBORN HEIGHTS police stand outside a house at 431 Hipp street, in Dearborn Heights, Mich., on Wednesday. A man is in custody after his two children were asphyxiated, his wife's two older children were fatally shot and his wife was shot and slashed at their suburban Detroit home, police said Wednesday.

"It's tough to respond to something like this," Krause said. "We aren't robots; we're human beings. ... It's going to bother some officers for some time."

Mayor Dan Paletko called the killings "a tragedy in every sense of the word."

"Just two or three weeks ago, they had a birthday party — balloons and all that stuff out there," neighbor Ronnie Jones told WXYZ-TV. "They've been working on the house the last two or three months."

Devils return home to face Northland Pines

By PAT KRAUSE
sports@yourdailyglobe.com

IRONWOOD — Starting out the season at 0-4 after being beaten by West Iron County 48-16 can be awful frustrating for a team and its coaching staff.

But for Ironwood head coach Ryan Niemi, there were also rays of hope coming out of the game. The Wykons jumped out to a 42-0 half-time lead after throwing four TD passes in the first two quarters and Niemi said pass coverage has been one of the team's weaknesses in the early season.

"We've got some inexperienced guys in the secondary and they've been playing the run too much," Niemi said. "We can cover the pass a lot better than we've been."

When teams are down 42-0 at half-time, many times the players are hoping the bus driver has the bus warmed up and ready to go as soon as possible. But just when things couldn't have looked much bleaker for the cardinal and white, good things started happening.

Playing against a team that still had a lot of starters on the field, Ironwood out-scored WIC 16-6 in the second half and running back Mike Merritt gained 101 yards while his team churned out 189 total rushing yards.

Moral victory or not, Niemi saw some good football in the third and fourth quarters and it wasn't coming from the opposing team.

"We had a very good second half," Niemi said. "I was very happy. I think we grew up on Friday."

What changed in the second half?

"We fixed some things at half-time and everything started working," Niemi said. "We ran harder, tackled better and were more physical. And our attitude came around a lot better."

Niemi said he hoped the Red Devils could build off how they finished offensively, because after seven weeks of practice and games, the coaching staff was running out of ways to motivate the players.

"Now it's up to them," Niemi said. "They have to motivate themselves."

On the injury front, Ian

Northland Pines at Ironwood, Friday, 7 p.m.

Averitt played on despite hurting his ribs and for a running back that can be a painful proposition.

Coming to town on Friday are the Northland Pines Eagles.

First year coach Matt Weberpal inherited a young squad that posted a 2-7 record last year. In a pre-season poll of West-PAC coaches, the Eagles were picked to finish seventh out of eight teams. And Northland Pines has started the year with a 1-4 record.

But Niemi said records can be misleading.

"They've played good teams like Calumet, Hancock and Hurley," Niemi said. "They run multiple sets offensively and have a real good running back in number 44. They are pretty quick in general."

Pines started off the year playing good defense behind linebacker Cody Jantzen, who was a 2015 First Team West-PAC All-Conference player as a sophomore.

Last week against Hurley, the Eagles fell behind the Midgets 23-0 at half-time and then their offense kicked in. They scored 19 second half points, but Hurley tallied 36.

Northland Pines totaled 19 first downs and rushed for 230 yards.

Weberpal agreed his team's record doesn't reflect how good they really are.

"Our offensive and defensive lines have played well and we've played with a lot of enthusiasm and effort," Weberpal said. "We haven't capitalized on our opportunities, especially in the red zone and we've lost some real close games. Hopefully, we can start winning games and get back in the playoff picture."

Weberpal said he doesn't know a lot about Ironwood but likes their potential from a film he has and felt they have some speed in the backfield.

Ironwood fans may get to enjoy a good close football game on Friday night.

Miners face North Dickinson at Wakefield

By JASON JUNO
sports@yourdailyglobe.com

WAKEFIELD — The Gogebic Miners continue the tough road through the heart of the Mid-Eastern Conference Saturday when North Dickinson comes to Wakefield.

The Miners are coming a 20-6 loss to Lake Linden-Hubbell where they played well but were outscored 14-0 in the second half.

Gogebic is seeking its first win since beating Three Lakes 56-0 in Wakefield in Week 1.

"We showed flashes of solid play the week before in Norway when we had chances early to do some damage in that game or make the game a little more interesting and we didn't capitalize. I thought that carried into the Lake Linden game, which is a good sign," Gogebic coach Mark Movrich said. "I just hope we can carry it over again. Mainly, we competed. We made enough plays when necessary to give us chances to win the ballgame."

North Dickinson comes into the game with a 2-2 record, trying to make the playoffs in its last season playing 11-man football. The Nordics are switching to 8-man next year.

The Nordics lost 22-20 to conference favorite Newberry Friday. They were beat soundly by Norway in week 2, 41-14. Gogebic lost to Norway by a similar score, 49-20. Both contests against Norway were close at the half time before the Knights pulled away.

"North Dickinson's a very similar team to Lake Linden as far as offensive style. Good athletes," Movrich said. "They played a very good Newberry team tough last week. We definitely know that we're going to see another quality opponent."

The Miners are in a brutal six-week stretch of tough games that started at Bark River-Harris in week 2, goes through all of the best Mid-Eastern teams, and ends with Hurley in week 7.

"It's almost like every week after the game, we talk to the kids and we tell them — they're probably sick of hearing it — but it's true with our schedule — 'It's not going to be any easier next week,'" Movrich said. "Other than the first week, we haven't had a week where we can relax and be off your game a little bit. The instant you are, a team just takes it to you."

North Dickinson vs. Gogebic at Wakefield, Saturday, 1 p.m.

Gogebic has been playing Saturday games the last few years in Wakefield, while it's North Dickinson's first of the season.

"It's one thing when you do it at home, if you do it on the road, you have to get up early and travel," Movrich said. "I would think if there's any advantage there, it's us."

The Miners are nursing some injuries, which is tough with only 18 people on the entire high school roster. A couple of special teams players will be out, but no starting players on offense or defense will miss the game.

Everyone has been playing well, Movrich said.

"It seems like, everybody has stepped up and made big plays at different times to put us in position to win ballgames," Movrich said. "It's been a collective effort. On the other side of it, we have some guys nicked up. We try to do the best we can to minimize their contact in the game."

E-TC goes from state champs to Forest Park

By PAT KRAUSE

EWEN — Ewen-Trout Creek lost big (79-0) last Saturday to the number one team in 8-man football according to the Michigan AP Prep Football poll and head coach Brandon Ward knew why.

"North Central has way too many weapons," Ward said. "They have great speed and we couldn't match it. And they execute so well. They only run a handful of plays and I could almost call out what they were going to run, but they run those plays so well you can't stop them."

"But it was a learning experience for our kids. They got to see what a championship team looks like, plays like and acts like."

The Panthers and Ontonagon played North Central in back-to-back games and both Ward and Gladiator coach Ben Mayer came to the same conclusion that the Jets are better this year than when they won the 8-man state title last year.

There may have been few positives coming out of Saturday's game, but the Michigan High School Athletic Association informed E-TC one of their play-

Midgets seek playoff berth at L'Anse

By JASON JUNO

HURLEY — Hurley will take its first road trip of the season seeking a berth in the WIAA postseason for the 19th straight year.

The Midgets' only road game in the first five weeks of the season was at Ironwood. But they head to L'Anse this week.

"That's a challenge because we haven't been on the road since the scrimmage and routine is not necessarily set yet for this," Hurley coach Scott Erickson said. "We know we're going to get a good game from L'Anse and coach (Mark) Leaf's boys."

The Midgets need a record over .500 in the conference to qualify for the postseason. With seven West-PAC games, Hurley needs to be at least 4-3 and and they are currently 3-1.

Beyond just getting into the playoffs, the Midgets are trying to build a resume fitting of one or more home games. While they got a Level 1 home game last year at 7-2, an 8-1 record could give the Midgets two home games.

"It'd be nice to get a win right now and keep earning seed position," Hurley coach Scott Erickson said. "But we've got four tough games left. It's no small feat to get home through the rest of the season. Our guys got challenges every week. Keep playing the way we're playing, I feel good where we're at, I see some really good things for this team going forward."

Erickson looks at how his team went to overtime in a loss to Calumet, which lost by just a touchdown to Negaunee, ranked first in the U.P. large school poll. The Miners won big over Iron Mountain, which beat Ishpeming.

"Matchups are always key, but I think we're pretty good in all facets," Erickson said. "We've got speed. We've got enough size to compete. We've got some depth. We're getting good at tackling. We're winning turnover battles. We're doing all the things you need to do to win games. I would expect our kids will get better at all those things."

Gladiators face Green Bay N.E.W. Lutheran at Crystal Falls

ONTONAGON — It was one of those games where Ontonagon felt like it had to keep scoring just to keep pace with Rapid River last Friday.

But in the end, it was the Rockets that won the high-scoring shootout 48-36.

"It was a close back-and-forth game," Ontonagon head coach Ben Mayer said. "We put points on the board, but Rapid River is big physically and their backs were tough to bring down. They had a bunch of long drives on us. They made a couple less mistakes than us and got up on us by three touchdowns twice. We got it back to six points. We have a lot of tough kids playing both ways."

And it was the mental toughness the Gladiators displayed that Mayer was most pleased with.

"We fought our way back twice and I was real impressed by that," Mayer said. "They never lost the fight against a bigger team with three times the guys we have. We really went after them. I've never had a team be down by three touchdowns and come back like that twice."

Mayer said Ontonagon has scored a fair amount of points this season (134), but he is concerned that the defense has given up too many

Pioneers return to action

By JASON JUNO
 sports@yourdailyglobe.com

MERCER, Wis. — Mercer-Butternut returns to the gridiron this week with a trip to Winter Friday night.

The Pioneers won their only two home games of the season, over Bowler-Gresham and Oneida Nation, before last week's bye week. They tried unsuccessfully to find a game for last week.

The bye week had its ups and downs for the 2-2 Pioneers.

"It was good in that we were able to get healthy," Mercer-Butternut coach Matt Schoeneman said. "It was bad to stop our rhythm. I think we were in a good rhythm of playing football. The week off was definitely something we did not want."

It's been an excellent first season for the Pioneers.

"We're getting to a point where the kids are buying into what we're asking them to do," Schoeneman said. "They're doing their assignments. The tackling, blocking and ball control is improving for everyone."

Winter has a good tradition of football and has a high-scoring offense, he said. The Pioneers are no

Ward said that if E-TC is to improve and increase its win total, it must do two things. One is to run the ball more consistently. He said the only game the Panthers have run the ball well was against Carney Nadeau in game one. One reason the running game is stuck in the mud is that Trace Gagnon has been hampered by injuries.

E-TC's other achilles heel has been its defense (or lack of). E-TC has surrendered 187 points in four games. That's almost 47-points per game.

"That's too much for 8-man football," Ward said. "A big part of it is the bigger schools have combined for about 135-points right there. We are out-manned in some games. The bigger schools usually do well."

"We also have to make tackles at the point of attack and tackle more consistently."

A team that was once an 11-man football powerhouse is now ers set a new record in 8-man football and another Panther tied an older record.

Jake Witt, who Ward said now stands at about 6-8, set the record for most receiving touchdowns (8) in one 8-man football game in Michigan. He did it in only the third varsity football game he's played in.

Quarterback Austin Berglund tied a Michigan 8-man football record by throwing for seven touchdown passes. Both records came against Baraga on Sept. 9. Most football players would gladly settle for seven or eight touchdowns in a career, much less one game.

But that's how fast teams can score in 8-man football.

hosting E-TC tomorrow as an 8-man football powerhouse. Many football fans were shocked when Crystal Falls Forest Park made the decision to join the world of 8-man football, but it's a sign of the times.

Forest Park is 3-1 (losing only to North Central) and are ranked second in the latest U.P. 8-man football poll.

Forest Park has scored 212-points this season. The Trojans have been in the end zone more than Peyton Manning has been in TV commercials.

But Ward said that unlike North Central which has so many weapons, Forest Park relies heavily on a bulldozer-type running back in Daniel Nocerini.

"We have to at least slow down or contain Nocerini," Ward said. "It's the Nocerini show and its power running. He's a great player. We have to gang-tackle him and lower our shoulders on him. He can't have a huge game."

Twins, Tigers rained out; plan doubleheader on Thursday

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Detroit Tigers gained ground in the American League wild card race on Wednesday night, even though they were rained out in Minnesota.

Thursday's doubleheader gives Detroit another big opportunity to climb in the wild card standings.

Wednesday's game was delayed by rain in the bottom of the third inning with the two teams scoreless and was postponed 90 minutes later leading to a split

NY bombing case most high-profile since Boston bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal charges portraying Manhattan bombing suspect Ahmad Khan Rahami as a man bent on murderous destruction set the stage for the most anticipated terror prosecution since the Boston Marathon bombing.

As separate cases wind through federal courts in New Jersey and New York, prosecutors are sure to reveal more about the bombings that injured 31 people and the evidence that led to Rahami's capture early Monday morning after a shootout with police. A courtroom airing of those allegations is likely to conjure memories of the attempted Times Square bombing in 2010 and the Boston explosion three years later — unusual incidents in which a defendant was captured alive after an attack was attempted or carried out.

This latest prosecution is in keeping with the Justice Department's commitment to use America's civilian court system for terrorism cases.

Though the Obama administration — facing stiff opposition — abandoned its 2009 plan to transfer some Guantanamo Bay detainees to Manhattan federal court for trial, the Justice Department has since cited a series of a high-profile successes — including one in New York against the son-in-law of Osama bin Laden — as proof that the U.S. criminal justice system can secure swift convictions and harsh punishment against terrorism defendants. The military tribunal system, meanwhile, has been snarled by delay.

"No one can point to any example of a civilian criminal prosecution where any of the issues we were worried about actually manifested," including attacks on a trial or inappropriate disclosures of national security information, said Stephen Vladeck, a national security law professor at the University of Texas. "All of the concerns that have been raised, I think, are belied by the record."

There have been political calls, including from Republican presidential nominee Donald Trump, to treat terror suspects like Rahami as enemy combatants, which would deny them certain constitutional rights.

But there's extremely limited and unsettled precedent for doing that when a defendant is captured on U.S. soil. One 2002 instance involved Jose Padilla, who was first held as an enemy combatant before being prosecuted and convicted in federal court. The Obama administration has time and again expressed its support for the civilian criminal justice system.

"There are lots of different ways for the government to throw the book at Rahami in civilian court," Vladeck said. "Our post 9/11-criminal counterterrorism regime is not soft."

Rahami has been hospitalized since his arrest in Linden, New Jersey. He had not spoken with investigators as of Tuesday evening.

Associated Press

AHMAD KHAN Rahami is taken into custody after a shootout with police in Linden, N.J., Monday. Rahami, a U.S. citizen born in Afghanistan has been charged by federal officials in two states with planting bombs in New York and at a military charity run and train station in New Jersey. Rahami remained hospitalized Tuesday after a shootout the day before with police in New Jersey.

2 potential bombing witnesses sought

NEW YORK (AP) — Investigators of last weekend's bombings have released an image of two men who took a suitcase they found on a city street, possibly without realizing a wired pressure cooker they removed from it and left behind could have blown them to bits.

Police investigating the bombings in New York and New Jersey have been saying for several days they were looking for the men, who they stressed were being sought as potential witnesses in the case, not as suspects.

"They're not in any jeopardy of being arrested," Jim Watters, chief of the New York Police Department's counterterrorism unit, said on Wednesday. "We have no reason to believe they're connected."

Federal prosecutors have charged Ahmad Khan Rahami with detonating a pipe bomb in a New Jersey shore town on Saturday morning and a pressure cooker bomb in New York City's Chelsea neighborhood later that night. Thirty-one people were injured in the New York blast. A second pressure cooker bomb left in Manhattan didn't explode and is the subject of the latest public plea.

Prosecutors said surveillance video shows Rahami rolling a suitcase down the street, then abandoning it on the sidewalk where that second device was found.

A few minutes later, two men pass by the luggage and appear to admire it, police said. They then remove a pressure cooker from the luggage, leave the pressure cooker on the sidewalk and walk away with the luggage.

"I think they were more interested in the bag, not what they were taking out," Watters said, adding that they were "very, very lucky" the bomb didn't explode.

In court papers, a public defender sought a court appearance for Rahami, an Afghan-born U.S. citizen, so he can hear the federal terrorism charges against him.

Rahami, 28, was arrested on Monday following a shootout with police in Linden, New Jersey. He is being held on $5.2 million bail, and he faces state charges of attempted murder of police officers.

Attorney General Loretta

Lynch said Rahami will be moved to New York to face federal charges in the "near future."

In a bloodied journal recovered by investigators, Rahami made references to Osama bin Laden, American-born Muslim cleric Anwar al-Awlaki and former Army officer Nidal Hasan, who went on a shooting rampage in Ford Hood, Texas, according to a federal complaint.

In one section, the complaint says, Rahami wrote: "Death to your oppression."

Clinton, Trump decry latest police shootings of black men

CLEVELAND (AP) — Donald Trump and Hillary Clinton decried a fresh round of police-involved shootings on Wednesday, with the Republican nominee saying he was "very troubled" by the killing of a black man by a white police officer in Oklahoma.

Courting black voters who have long spurned Republicans, Trump's event in Cleveland Heights' New Spirit Revival Center took a bizarre turn when he was introduced by boxing promoter Don King, who used a racial slur as he made the case for black voters to support Trump. In an interview later, Trump called for a national expansion of "stop-and-frisk," the police tactic that a federal judge ruled can be discriminatory against minorities.

Trump's latest foray into the black community not only sought to connect with voters in Cleveland, home to a large community of African-American voters key to Clinton's prospects in Ohio, but also with moderate suburban voters, who frequently hear Clinton describe Trump as extreme.

King, introducing Trump, raised eyebrows when he said a black man is always framed by his skin color, recalling that he once told pop icon Michael Jackson "if you're poor, you're a 'poor Negro.' If you're rich, you're a 'rich Negro.'" An educated black man is "an intellectual negro."

King, who is black, continued: "If you're a dancing and sliding and gliding n----- I mean Negro — you are 'a dancing and sliding and gliding Negro.'" Gasps and laughs could be heard from the audience.

The King incident underscored the often clumsy way in which Trump has made his appeal to minority voters. Many black community leaders and voters have been offended by his dire depiction of life in minority communities. Trump's outreach has also been viewed cynically as an attempt by his campaign to soothe concerns among more moderate, suburban voters.

At the end of the Ohio church event organized by members of his diversity coalition, Trump was asked about recent high-profile police shootings in Oklahoma and North Carolina. Trump said 40-year-old Terence Crutcher, who was killed in Friday's Tulsa, Oklahoma, shooting, "looked like he did everything you're supposed to do. And he looked like a really good man."

"This young officer, I don't know what she was thinking. I don't know what she was thinking but I'm very, very troubled by that," Trump said, calling it a "terrible situation."

But hours later he called for the expanded use of stop-and-frisk, a police tactic that a federal judge has ruled can be discriminatory against minorities. Trump said during a Fox News town hall taping that the tactic, which gives police the ability to stop and search anyone they deem suspicious, had "worked incredibly well" in New York, where it was expanded under former New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg.

While illuminating, Tulsa videos leave out key details

OKLAHOMA (AP) — Police in Tulsa, Oklahoma, broadly released dashcam and aerial footage, 911 calls and police radio traffic with unusual swiftness following last Friday's shooting death of an unarmed black man by a white officer.

But what actually transpired on the Tulsa street between Terence Crutcher and officer Betty Shelby remains murky.

WHAT THE VIDEOS SHOW

Two different views — one from a police helicopter and the other from officer Tyler Turnbough's dashboard camera — provide the most illuminating footage. They both show the 40-year-old Crutcher walking with his hands in the air toward his SUV, which is stopped in the middle of the street and straddling the center line. A female officer is following him.

As Crutcher approaches the driver's side of the SUV, more officers walk up and Crutcher appears to lower his hands and place them on the vehicle. A man inside a police helicopter overhead says: "That looks like a bad dude, too. Probably on something."

The officers surround Crutcher — blocking a clear view from the camera — and he suddenly drops to the ground. Someone on the police radio says, "I think he may have just been tasered." Then almost immediately, a woman's voice yells on the police radio: "Shots fired!" Crutcher is left lying in the street.

The officers slowly back away. Crutcher, his white shirt stained with blood, lies on the ground alone and unattended for nearly two minutes before an officer puts on medical gloves and begins to examine him.

Emergency medical responders arrive about four minutes after he was shot.

WHAT THE VIDEOS DON'T SHOW

The videos don't show what happened when Shelby first encountered Crutcher and the roughly two minutes that follow before other officers arrived.

No dashcam footage exists from Shelby's car because she didn't activate her emergency lights — which in turn switches on the camera — when she came upon the abandoned vehicle in the roadway. No body camera footage exists, because Tulsa police have not implemented the devices for officers, despite receiving a federal grant to do so last year.

Also absent is audio that could have captured exchanges between Crutcher and Shelby. A 911 caller reported an abandoned SUV, left running in the middle of the road with the driver's side door open.

Bark collars are not effective for dog training

Dear Annie

Dear Annie: I have never written you before. Hoping you will give some space to this subject. I pray dog owners choosing to use a bark collar will see themselves as their neighbors do.

Dog ownership in our neighborhood has risen tenfold in the past five years. We have chosen not to have a dog — but love them and frequently dog-sit for our friends and relatives. Here is the problem: incessant barking and extremely irresponsible, cruel dog-owning neighbors. We are talking one- to four-hour stretches of barking.

One neighbor leaves for work. His two dogs have a dog door and free access to the outside at any time.

When the dogs decide for themselves to go out, the barking is constant for as long as the owner's shift lasts.

Two other neighbors have resorted to using bark collars that shock their dogs. This is absolutely inhumane. I can barely stand it to hear the dogs screaming in pain when those irresponsible owners hit the buzz button — at their random convenience. The inconsistency just makes it even more confusing for the dogs, I'm sure.

Owners, please stop using bark collars. You have deluded yourselves into thinking that you are being consistent, that it is an effective means of training and that it doesn't hurt the dog.

Reconsider your need to own a dog if you do not have the time or means to devote to proper training and adjust your life to your individual dog's needs and personality. Do some soul-searching, and do what is right for your dog.

We live in a small rural community with very few resources, so options for reporting and taking action to address situations such as these are extremely limited. We have approached the offenders on several occasions — thus the rise of the bark collars, which was not our intention.

Thanks for letting me vent. — Weary of the Cruelty

Dear Weary: Thank you for writing about this important issue. I'm printing it here in hopes that anyone guilty of these offenses will reconsider this behavior. You're right; the shock collars are not only cruel but also ineffective. They may stop a dog from barking temporarily, but they do not address the root issues that cause excessive barking, such as stress and separation anxiety.

Reflect upon what you have done so far and what's left on your bucket list. An honest assessment of your highs and lows will help you set a course that is sure to bring a rewarding future. Learn as you go, and don't fold under pressure.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Try not to complain or question what others do. Focus inward and aim to do things that will make you feel good about yourself and your contributions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Learn as you go. Let your instincts and intuition help you find your strengths. Courage comes from doing what you believe is right. Change will lead to a fortunate discovery.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Don't spend money foolishly. If you want to help a cause, put your time and expertise to work, not your cash. Your ideas will be a far better contribution.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — If you put more time and effort into personal relationships, you will find common ground that will help you bring about positive changes at home and among your peers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Stick close to home and take measures to prevent interference from someone who is trying to make you look bad. Don't hesitate or change your mind just because someone disrupts your plans. Do what works for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — An experiment will turn out better than anticipated. Network with others and share your success with people who could have something to contribute to your plans. Romance is highlighted.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — Problems at home will escalate. Stay focused on your work and on fulfilling your duties in a timely manner. Letting your emotions affect your job performance will lead to more stress at home.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — You should make special plans that will bring you closer to someone who intrigues you. Share your vision and your ambitions. Altering your living arrangement looks promising.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — An emotionally fraught matter will get blown out of proportion if you or a colleague becomes aggressive. Refuse to get drawn into something that could put you in a vulnerable position.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — You need to show greater creativity when you are dealing with peers or presenting your work. Someone will offer you an opportunity based on your actions, not your words.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Don't take part in gossip or share personal information. Work on a project that will require your undivided attention and unique and creative skills. Home improvements are favored.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Keep your emotions out of any situation that involves money. Joint ventures will not pan out as hoped, leaving you in an awkward position. A romantic gesture will pay off.

The tough plays keep appearing

By Phillip Alder

Salma Hayek said, "Life is tough, and if you have the ability to laugh at it, you have the ability to enjoy it."

This week has featured some tougher-than-usual plays. Here is another. South is in three no-trump. West leads a fourth-highest heart six, and East produces the king. What should declarer do?

The auction was natural, South's two-no-trump rebid denying four hearts. Note that if you play two-over-one game-force, South's rebid indicates 12-14 points or 18-19 points; there is no need to jump to three no-trump, because two no-trump is forcing. Then, with 18-19, if responder, as he does here, raises to three no-trump, opener nudges to four no-trump to invite a slam.

(Some pairs play that to rebid three no-trump indicates a 5-3-3-2 hand with 15-17 points that did not look right for a one-no-trump opening.)

South starts with six top tricks: two hearts (given trick one), two diamonds and two clubs. He can hope to get at least three winners from spades, but the defender with that ace will surely duck the first round of the suit. Then declarer will need two hand entries: one to knock out the spade ace and the other to cash the established winners. What are South's two entries?

He has only the heart ace and diamond ace. So, to make the contract, South must not win the first trick.

Let's assume East shifts to a diamond. Declarer wins on the board and leads the spade queen. When it holds, he crosses to the heart ace and drives out the spade ace, here ending with an overtrick.

SYRIAN AIRSTRIKES

Associated Press

SYRIAN CIVIL Defense White Helmets provided this photo of rescue workers working the site of airstrikes in al-Mashhad neighborhood in the rebel-held part of eastern Aleppo, Wednesday. Ibrahim Alhaj, a member of the volunteer first responders known as the Syria Civil Defense, said 24 people were killed in a series of bombings in several parts of the besieged city Aleppo on Wednesday.

Airstrike hits medics in Syria as UN moves to resume aid

BEIRUT (AP) — An airstrike in northern Syria killed four medics responding to an earlier bombing raid, a relief group said Wednesday, as the U.N. announced it would resume aid deliveries suspended after an attack on a convoy two days ago that killed 20 people.

The escalation of violence against humanitarian workers has all but destroyed a cease-fire that took effect on September 12, and has stoked tensions between the truce's architects, the U.S. and Russia, which have traded blame for running it into the ground.

The U.N. said convoys to priority areas would be resumed, with deliveries planned as early as Thursday. "Our obligation to civilians on all sides is to go where and when we can with relief," said Jan Egeland, a senior U.N. humanitarian official focused on Syria. "We hope to resume convoys tomorrow and Friday, but still work on security guarantees.

But air raids continued in other parts of Syria, with activists reporting at least 23 civilians killed in the besieged parts of Aleppo city and the nearby rebel-held Idlib province.

The attack that killed the medics took place shortly after they arrived at the scene of an airstrike in the rebel-held town of Khan Touman on Tuesday. As the medics deployed, planes circled around and struck the area again, Dr. Oubaida Al Moufti, vice president of the International Union of Medical Care and Relief Organizations, said. Al-Moufti initially said that five medics were killed. The group later said two nurses and two ambulance drivers were killed, while a third nurse remains in critical condition.

Syrian government forces have been accused of carrying out "double tap" attacks throughout the 5-1/2 year war, placing paramedics and rescue workers in peril.

The Britain-based Syrian Observatory for Human Rights said nine militants, some of them belonging to the Fatah al-Sham Front, an al-Qaida-linked group previously known as the Nusra Front, were also killed in the "double tap" attack.

It was not immediately clear who carried out the strike. Aircraft from Syria, Russia and the U.S.-led coalition are targeting the Fatah al-Sham Front, which along with the Islamic State group was excluded from the cease-fire.

The airstrike on a Syrian Arab Red Crescent convoy Monday night prompted international condemnation over attacks targeting humanitarian facilities and workers. U.N. Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon described the convoy strike as a "sickening, savage and apparently deliberate attack." The convoy was carrying U.N. aid.

The U.S. initially said it believed Russian or Syrian government jets were behind the attack on the aid convoy. But a senior U.S. official said Wednesday that Washington has determined with a very high degree of confidence that the attack was carried out by a Russian piloted aircraft.

Moscow denied that Russian or Syrian aircraft were behind the attack, saying there was a fire in the cargo. Defense Ministry spokesman Maj. Gen. Igor Konashenkov said a U.S. Predator drone was in the area of the convoy attack when it happened.

In New York on Tuesday, Russian and U.S. diplomats insisted that the cease-fire, which went into effect nine days ago, was not dead, despite soaring violence. U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry and his counterpart Sergey Lavrov exchanged blame in a public session on Syria at the U.N. Security Council.

The Syrian military said the truce expired Monday night, shortly before presumed Russian or Syrian government jets launched a sustained aerial attack on Aleppo's opposition-held neighborhoods.

The cease-fire was intended in part to allow humanitarian convoys to reach besieged and hard-to-reach areas throughout Syria. The U.N. estimates that some 6 million Syrians live in such areas.

On Wednesday, Syrian opposition activists said suspected government airstrikes in the northern city of Aleppo and the rebel-held Idlib province killed 23 civilians, including at least five children.

The Observatory, which relies on a network of activists inside Syria, said at least 11 civilians, including three children and three women, were killed Wednesday during air raids on several rebel-held neighborhoods of Aleppo.

Ibrahim Alhaj, a member of the volunteer first responders known as the Syria Civil Defense, said 24 people were killed in the Aleppo strikes.

In nearby Idlib, the Observatory said 12 civilians, including two children, were killed in at least eight air raids.

Ask Doctor K

PERIPHERAL NEUROPATHY IS NOT ALWAYS CAUSED BY DIABETES

By Anthony L. Komaroff, M.D.

DEAR DOCTOR K: I have peripheral neuropathy. I know that people with diabetes often get neuropathy, but I'm not diabetic. What else can cause this condition? And what can I do about it?

DEAR READER: Neuropathy is a medical term that means nerve damage. The type of nerve damage that people with diabetes get involves specific nerve fibers in all nerves, particularly the nerves that travel to the legs and feet. (There are other conditions in which a single nerve leading to the legs and feet is pinched, causing pain. An example is what is often called a "slipped disk" or "herniated disk" in the lower part of the spine.)

The symptoms of peripheral neuropathy include numbness and tingling. Some cases cause burning, shooting or stabbing pain. When the doctor does a physical examination and touches your feet and lower legs with something as light as a feather (like some cotton), you may not feel it. However, you will feel it if the cotton touches your skin in the thigh or elsewhere on the body. You may also lose sensation to a pinprick in the lower legs and feet, but not the rest of you.

Diabetes is the most common cause of peripheral neuropathy. But neuropathy can result from other causes as well. These include:

- Hypothyroidism. In this condition, the thyroid gland does not produce enough thyroid hormone.
 - Amyloidosis, a disease in which an abnormal protein accumulates in the body.
 - Vitamin deficiencies, particularly vitamin B1, B12 and folate deficiency.
 - Infection with human immunodeficiency virus (HIV).
 - Critical illness, particularly if you develop a severe inflammatory response to infection.
 - Guillain-Barre syndrome. This uncommon autoimmune disorder damages the peripheral nerves.
 - Chemotherapy cancer treatment.
- Diagnosing peripheral neuropathy is best done by electromyography (EMG) and nerve conduction studies (NCS). Such testing often is not necessary, as your symptoms, your medical history and your doctor's physical examination make the diagnosis likely.
- Treatment of peripheral neuropathy begins with treating the underlying cause of the condition. For example, let's say your neuropathy is related to heavy drinking. You should severely restrict, or better yet abstain, from alcohol. If your neuropathy is caused by hypothyroidism, treatment with replacement doses of thyroid hormone should help.

The other goal of treatment is to relieve symptoms. In particular, treatment targets pain caused by peripheral neuropathy. Several medications can help. Gabapentin, an anticonvulsant medication, is usually effective. Tricyclic antidepressants can also effectively relieve pain.

Finally, while neuropathy itself causes pain, it (strangely enough) reduces sensitivity to pain caused by outside injuries. This makes you particularly vulnerable to foot damage. If you develop a cut or sore on your foot, without pain to alert you, you may not even notice the injury. Untreated, a simple wound may become severely infected. To prevent this, carefully check your feet every day and treat any foot injury immediately.

Conceptis Sudoku By Dave Green

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once.

The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Saturday.

US stocks jump after Fed leaves interest rates unchanged

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. stocks climbed Wednesday as investors were relieved that the Federal Reserve once again left interest rates unchanged. That sent dividend-paying stocks higher, while energy companies jumped with the price of oil.

Stocks made a big gain after the Fed's decision, which ended about weeks of confusion for investors. With the central bank confirming that it will raise interest rates slowly, bond yields dropped and utility and phone companies rose. The price of oil rose after the U.S. government said energy stockpiles shrank last week.

In the last two weeks, a few Fed leaders gave differing opinions on whether the central bank should raise interest rates now. That surprised investors, and stocks gyrated for a few days before settling down to tiny moves this week.

"If we had not received these mixed messages, I don't think anybody would have been surprised," said Sam Stovall, U.S. equity strategist for S&P Capital IQ.

The Dow Jones industrial average added 163.74 points, or 0.9 percent, to 18,293.70. The Standard & Poor's 500 index picked up 23.36 points, or 1.1

percent, to 2,163.12. The Nasdaq composite rose 53.83 points, or 1 percent, to a record 5,295.18.

Oil prices jumped as fuel stockpiles shrank and investors hoped that supply gluts are easing, which would allow prices to rise. The Energy Information Administration said oil inventories dropped by 6.2 million barrels and gasoline inventories decreased by 2.5 million barrels last week.

S&P Global Platts says analysts expected oil inventories to grow and gasoline stockpiles to shrink by a smaller amount.

Benchmark U.S. crude added $1.29, or 2.9 percent, to $45.34 a barrel in New York. Brent crude, used to price international oils, rose 95 cents, or 2.1 percent, to $46.83 a barrel in London. That helped energy companies, and Anadarko Petroleum rose $2.78, or 4.8 percent, to $61.06 while Chevron added $1.93, or 2 percent, to $99.63.

The Federal Reserve said the economy has gotten a bit stronger after some shaky results in the spring, and that the argument for raising interest rates has also gotten stronger. However the central bank said it wants to see more improvement in the job market before raising rates.

The Fed raised interest rates in December and hasn't made another move since. The benchmark interest rate was cut to zero in late 2008 and at its current pace it will take many years for rates to get back to pre-financial crisis levels.

Investors were surprised earlier this month when Fed official Eric Rosengren, who has been reluctant to raise rates, suggested he might be willing to raise rates this month. For several days stocks made big moves up and down as investors wondered if that would happen. In the end, Rosengren was one of three Fed voters who wanted to raise rates

Wednesday. Seven members voted to leave rates where they are.

By Fed standards, that's a divided result. Investors doubt the Fed will take action in November, when it meets right before the presidential election, but they think there's a good chance rates will rise in December.

The Dow was up about 30 points before the Fed's decision was announced. The ruling boosted dividend-paying companies while bond prices changed course and moved higher. The yield on the 10-year Treasury note fell to 1.66 percent from 1.69 percent.

World leaders rage against neighbors on day 2 of UN debate

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — World leaders from Pakistan to Ukraine unleashed their regional grievances Wednesday, taking the stage of the U.N. General Assembly to rage against their neighbors and presenting a picture of a chaotic world consumed by intractable conflicts.

A few paces from the General Assembly hall, the United States and Russia bitterly attacked each other during a Security Council meeting meant to salvage Syria's faltering cease-fire. Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon implored Syria's warring parties to lay down their arms.

In the midst of the anger, a few bright spots emerged on the second day of the annual U.N. gathering of heads of states. Colombia basked in world praise when it presented its newly reached peace agreement with leftist rebels to the Security Council. Former political prisoner Aung San Suu Kyi made her first General Assembly speech since she formed a democratically elected government in Myanmar.

But on the International Day of Peace, tensions from all parts of the planet filled the halls of the United Nations. Chinese Premier Li Keqiang voiced his country's mounting frustration with ally North Korea's pursuit of nuclear weapons, highlighting the urgency of reaching "a comprehensive political solution on the Korean nuclear issue."

Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe devoted about half of his address to North Korea, which earlier this month conducted its fifth nuclear test in defiance of repeated Security Council resolutions intended to constrain its weapons development. Abe said North Korea this year fired three missiles into Japan's exclusive economic zone and it was a matter of luck that no ships or aircraft were damaged. He urged unity in the Security Council to confront the North Korean threat.

"We must concentrate our strengths and thwart North Korea's plans," Abe said.

Some of the angriest words came from the rivalries between Pakistan, Afghanistan and India. Pakistani Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif delivered a blistering attack on neighboring India while, across the world, gunbattles raged for a second day between Indian soldiers and suspected rebels in the disputed territory of Kashmir.

Sharif demanded a U.N. investigation against "brutalities perpetrated by the Indian occupying forces," saying "innocent Kashmiri children, women and men" have been killed, blinded and injured. Moments earlier, Pakistan came under attack from Afghanistan.

Vice President Sarwar Danesh said "merciless attacks from terrorist groups" against its civilians are being planned and organized on Pakistani territory. He said Afghanistan has repeatedly asked Pakistan to destroy known terrorist safe havens but there has been no change in the situation.

Sharif shot back that Pakistan has suffered from spillover of Afghanistan's internal conflicts for more than three decades and "progress will be assured only when the Afghan parties themselves conclude that there is no military solution to the Afghan war."

There was positive news in Ukraine, where the government and separatist rebels agreed Wednesday to pull back troops and weapons from several areas in eastern Ukraine in an attempt to uphold a fragile peace agreement reached last year.

But at the United Nations, Ukrainian President Petro Poroshenko lambasted Russia for being "the instigator and major participant" in the conflict in eastern Ukraine.

"The terrorist component of the undeclared hybrid war that Russia wages against Ukraine is evident," Poroshenko said.

Respite from the invective came from Colombia, which appeared at the annual U.N. gathering as a country in peace for the first time in five decades.

Colombian President Juan Manuel Santos devoted almost his entire speech to the peace deal reached with the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia, which will be signed in

Petro Poroshenko

Cartagena later this month and must be submitted to a national referendum on Oct. 2.

"A new Colombia greets the international community today," Santos said. "A Colombia full of hope. A Colombia that, without a war, is ready to reach its highest potential and to be a positive factor in the global context."

He later met with President Barack Obama, who praised the peace accord as an "achievement of historic proportions."

Ban commended Santos for his "vision and determination." "In a time of armed conflicts in many other places, peace in Colombia sends a powerful message of hope in the world," Ban said.
