Ewen– Personnel issues were on the agenda at the recent Ewen-Trout Creek school board meeting. The district hired a new physical education/health teacher, Syler Thomas, of Sagumeg. Thomas is a recent graduate of Northern Michigan University.

The board also accepted the resignation of preschool teacher Kayla Peterson, who has accepted a position with the Gogebic-Olmington Intermediate School District. The board thanked Peterson for her service.

E-TC Business Manager Tammy Gibson advised the board of a new hire for the bus driver position, pending on the completion of the necessary requirements. She also advised the board of the possible bulk purchase of sunscreen.

Sisu Endurance Team event offers kids chance to try cross-country skiing

By RICHARD JENKINS

Ewen– Sisu Endurance — kids in Gogebic and Iron counties had a chance to try cross-country skiing as the Sisu Endurance State held off its third season of skiing Sunday with a try-out day at ABR Trails in Ewen Township.

“Any kids who showed up, a lot of parents were in here asking questions and interested. I thought it went awesome,” Iron County 4-H Youth Development Educator Neil Klemme said.

The roughly 22 kids who participated Sunday had the opportunity to try out cross-country skiing on the trail system, regardless of whether it was the first time they were on skis or if they were skilled skiers.

After skiing on the trails, the kids got to enjoy hot chocolate and cookies.

Klemme said some parents even took advantage of the event to get out on the trails.

Going forward, the team will consider Sunday as the Sisu Endurance State kickoff for the 2023 season.

Coast Guard boat capsizes in Oregon; all 4 crew rescued

WASHINGTON, Oreg. — All four crew members who were on a Coast Guard boat capsized after encountering heavy waves in Oregon.

The U.S. Coast Guard’s Tillamook Aids to Navigation Station reported a 6-person crew headed to the command center in Tillamook, Oregon, as well as several witnesses who called 911.

An urgent broadcast calling out for help came over Astoria Jayhawk crew and the Tillamook Local Unit helicopter crew to respond.

Trump returns to Washington face to face of challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 17-day holiday stay in his Florida resort over, President Donald Trump returned to the White House on Thursday, setting off twin challenges: the fading of his political clout and the looming impeachment trial in the Senate.

The timing — one of possible downs in the Middle East, as other polarized issues marked for only the third time in the nation’s history — will shape a defining month of Trump’s presidency, one that comes just before the first votes of the 2020 campaign.

From even before Air Force One touched down outside the divided nation’s capital, Trump faced growing questions from Democrats about his courtliness, as well as the impeachment trial in the Senate.

“The world has降温 about what a U.S. president can do,” said Mark Zaid, a high-profile attorney who has served as an informal legal adviser to the president.

“Why does he pick now to go to that highly inflammatory, dangerous action across the world? I don’t know who he’s trying to start the Massachusetts Wildfires series with?”

In the hours before Trump’s remarks, remnants of a winter storm had left a high of hundreds of thousands of homes without power across the region. Trump’s plan doesn’t seem to be working, as some in the region have been without power for days.

The U.S. Ski & Snowboard Association has canceled the final race of the Pro-Champ and F-5 divisions this weekend due to weather conditions.

Several riders had been racing and competing in northern Wisconsin over the weekend, with three fatalities reported.

One rider had died on Saturday, and two others died on Sunday. The official called it a "terrible weekend" for the ski community.

The state has closed some trails and asked for volunteers to help with search and rescue operations.

The FBI is investigating the deaths, but no foul play is suspected.

Dear Annie: My wife is an alcoholic. I wrote a letter to you last month about my wife and alcoholism and I have been thinking a lot about your advice. I have tried to help her with her drinking problem, but it seems that she is just using me as an excuse to travel and have fun. I feel like she is not taking our marriage seriously. I don’t know what to do. What can I do to help her? I love her, but I am growing tired of her constant drinking.

Frank & Ernest

Dear Frank: Alcoholism is a terrible disease. It does not discriminate. It hits the wealthy and the poor. It can afflict Catholics, Jews, Protestants and Muslims. It affects men and women, young and old. It does not care about your race, creed or color. It robs you of your character, your will. It will erode your self-senses, and then it goes to work on your friends. It is a disease that knows no bounds. It is a disease that knows no color. It is a disease that knows no creed. It is a disease that knows no religion. It is a disease that knows no race. It is a disease that knows no age. It is a disease that knows no gender.

Terminally-ill Paris in ruins, Parisians rise in protest

The rector of Notre Dame, Monsignor Patrick Chauvet, told the AP on Sunday that the cathedral is still fragile enough that it might not be able to support the scaffolding as it continues to support the structure.

PARIS (AP) — The French general overseeing the reconstruction of the fire-devastated Notre Dame Cathedral told French broadcaster CNews on Sunday that "the cathedral is still in a state of peril" after last year's fire, though most of it has been saved and the process of under renovations.

While the streaming service, you'd call your god and your agent, "You win." The first award of the night went, fittingly, to a Showtime series "The Loudest Voice." He wasn't in attendance because of raging wildfires in his native Australia.

"Make no mistake, the trump cards in Australia is climate-change hands," Craven said in a statement read by presenters Joanna Lumley and Reeves Whitethorne.

"We need to keep control of the scaffolding so that it can last for the entire time," he added.

He said the victories, ranging from the monumental to the mundane, are all special to surpass.
