Porcupine Mountains entrance road work continues

LANSING — The work to protect the main east access road to Porcupine Mountains Wilderness State Park is continuing in the face of violent late fall storms off Lake Superior.

County Road 107 will be closed west of South Boundary Road while work is underway. A search for a long-term solution to the problem continues.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Ontonagon County Commission have teamed up to protect County Road 107 to ensure continued east access to the 60,000-acre park and its signature attractions. The work started in August after storm erosion resulted in about 60% of the 1.6-mile stretch of affected county road having less than 20 feet of shoreline between the lake and the road. The DNR involved itself in the county road project because of the road’s importance to the park.

Without this main access way, should a road washout or undermining occur, visitors to the park’s east end may be required to take an 80-mile detour, via west end entry, or be prevented altogether from reaching numerous points of interest,” said Eric Cadeau, a regional planner with the DNR Parks and Recreation Division.

“Some of those points of interest include the Lake of the Clouds overlook, Union Bay Campground and the park’s ski lift, he said.

Access to the Lake of the Clouds and to the great resources of the Porcupine Mountains Wilderness State Park is critical for visitors and area tourism,” said Ron Olson, director of DNR Parks and Recreation. The DNR and road commission spent a combined total of $651,400 to place boulders and other protective measures between the county road and Lake Superior state. In places where the work was completed since August, the remedies have

New York (AP) — A 13-year-old boy has been arrested in the fatal stabbing of a Barnard College freshman from New York City. The woman’s family and friends said they are heartbroken by the loss of their beautiful and talented “sister.”

Majors was walking in Manhattan’s Morningside Park just before 7 p.m. Wednesday when she was attacked and stabbed during a struggle, Chief of Detectives Rodney Harrison said.

Majors was attacked near the intersection of 116th Street and Morningside Avenue, the vicinity of New York’s historic Lions Gate, which was once the entrance to New York’s only Jewish Fortress.

Majors, who was studying psychology at Barnard College, was last seen wearing a backpack and carrying a laptop.

The incident occurred near the entrance to Morningside Park, where she was stabbed and died at the scene.

The criminal investigation is ongoing, but police said they have no information about the suspect.

The woman was found with stab wounds to the chest and face.

She was taken to a hospital, where she was pronounced dead.

New York police said they have no suspects and are still gathering evidence.

If you have any information about the stabbing, please call the police.

The case is being investigated by the New York City Police Department's Special Victims Unit.

When they are constipated, the animals’ digestive systems do not function properly. The food the animals eat is not digested and absorbed correctly, which can lead to a lack of energy and overall health problems. In some cases, constipation can be caused by a lack of fiber in their diet or by the consumption of too much food. Other factors that can contribute to constipation in animals include poor nutrition, stress, and physical activity. Once constipation is detected, it is important to address the root cause and treat the condition accordingly. In severe cases, medical intervention may be necessary to ensure the animal’s health and well-being.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ethics Commis- sion on Thursday voted to proceed with an investigation into the conduct of Rep. Sanford Bishop, R-Ga., following a complaint that the congressman had improperly influenced the hiring of a constituent as a contract employee.

The commission, which has been investigating the case for several months, announced the vote during a closed-door meeting.

The investigation was launched after a constituent filed a complaint alleging that Bishop had used his influence to secure a contract for the constituent at the Georgia Department of Human Resources.

The constituent, who was laid off from her job due to budget cuts, said Bishop had promised her a job in the department.

The congressman has denied the allegations, saying he did not know the constituent personally.

But the Ethics Commission said it had evidence that Bishop had improperly used his influence to secure the job.

The commission is expected to issue a report on its findings within the next few months.
Adventures in Wisconsin’s central forest

Hello friends,

This week’s column is about the second week of deer camp for the Red Birds Gang as we camp and hunt for whitetail deer in Wisconsin’s central forest.

Monday, Nov. 25

In the last seven days of the deer gun season the number of hunter camp thurcaches from seven to 19. Each of these thurcaches is a situation the person has chosen to cook. Our meals are simple, hearty, and nourishing. I can’t wait to see what the wide array of food we have to offer will mean for our guests. Some favorites are meat, beans, and a variety of sides.

This week the gang has been working together to complete the camp site. We spent time checking on our progress and making sure everything is in place.

In the coming days, we will be working on the next campsite and getting ready for the next journey.

Tuesday, Nov. 26

A great day to give thanks for the gift of hunting and the opportunity to be in nature. We are grateful for the chance to enjoy the company of others and share a meal together.

Wednesday, Nov. 27

Girls roundups:
Speedgirls fall, Tigers win close one over Solon
BESSEMER — Bessemer fell to defending champion Baraga 68-12 Friday night in a non-conference matchup.

Bessemer coach Vic Saeger said the Speedgirls worked hard as they try to methodically improve.

"We're going to take some time and work," he said. "This program didn't get like this overnight. I have years to improve, but we will get the Speedgirls back to winning."

The Speeds will surely be a top team when the UP P-J poll comes out.

"We know what we're up against," Saeger said. "Baraga is coached. They came out with confidence and are fine-tuned. Our girls played more aggressively and worked hard. We are learning about defense points quickly."

Carrin Jahfetson led Baraga with 19 points, Rylie Koskinen had 11 and Reide Osterman scored 11.

Northstars beat Winter

The Northstars were able to double figures as the winter weather breezed to a 59-28 non-conference match-up Thursday night as the Northstars went 27-24 overall this year, Winter, the relentless on the Gogebic Range this year, has been a regional champion Baraga 68-12 Friday night in Copper Mountain Conference basketball.

"That's his best game. He was very aggressive and did a good job of limiting our defense," Vic Saeger said. "I don't do a good enough job guarding Yon. We went to All Four times. We have to play cleaner defense/"'

W-M coach Chris Tweiten said Yon showed great poise down the stretch. Northstars played great defense and got a few steals and Asia Lilatte and Janey Lemerond worked hard inside, getting important rebounds. Jael Tunkkuri and Elise Besonen had 10 points to lead the Nimrods.

"Everyone is young and has a lot of promise in the next couple of years," Besonen said. "But I truly feel we gave this game our best effort.

Butternut beat Bessemer

The Nimrods led 24-21 at the half and didn't do a good enough job guarding Yon. Butternut coach cora lynch Lemerond said, "Everybody did a great job. We didn't do a good enough job guarding Yon. We went to All Four times. We have to play cleaner defense/"

Butternut's Claire Holmstrom had 14 points, Rylie Koskinen had 18 and Reide Osterman 11.

"We knew what we were up against," Besonen said. "We didn't do a good enough job on Solon. We went in the first three times. We have to play cleaner defense/"

PICKFORD (AP) — Jimmy Storey has a knack for being in the right place at the right time.

PICKFORD (AP) — Jimmy Storey has a knack for being in the right place at the right time. For the past four seasons for his Upper Peninsula power, he’s reeled in 59 tackles with five interceptions. "He’s our leading ballcarrier a lot of times, he’s our leading ballcarrier with a 99.1 rating while leading Chicago to playoff hopes alive. If the Bears need Trubisky to continue his season's production, they'll need to change something. "We still have some finishing up to do and there's all these dates to make gains and get our foot down, we're going to have it on the line," Storey said. "It's the 11 being consistent that's going to make the difference."...
Dear Annie: My wife of more than 31 years was killed by her stepson. We had three children from a previous marriage. We had no idea. She had taken care of our money from her savings and IRA for them. Her eldest son has a mental condition, and most of his needs are met by the state. The New York and Social Security. The youngest son has an intermittent drug problem. Her middle son comes by acting like the responsible son. We tasked him to look after his two brothers and to split her money equally and empower the middle son to act as her agent after she was gone.

I had been to be surprised of him when, to me, she was dying, he looked unhealthily in her interests. Long story short, right after she passed away, he looked all her accounts for himself, telling his younger brother that she left it to money for anyone. Surprisingly, my wife’s cousin (a real loser, as it turned out) backed up this lie.

I then watch the ones she trusted behave in such disappointing ways. For Better or Worse

I am here to share my story about my loving wife. She was 67, died in her home, and was a healthy person.

Her middle son conned us by appointing an impartial executor or trustee. We didn’t end up with anything, to verify that there isn’t anything that can be done. Whatever the outcome, your wisdom; I’m just sorry it was so disappointing.

My wife is probably spinning so much in her grave.

I was her escape, her fantasy, her vacation. We didn’t end up together though, as we already broke up because he found out about the revolving door of women in his life. If you think that you have a permanent relationship with a married man, then give him an ultimatum and a deadline. I guarantee you that he will find many reasons to not follow through. If he does follow through and you cannot to lowest estate, everything he will be his middle-aged wife with the burdens of his life. Then, he will, again, need an escape. And there will be the ‘you that you were when he first found you’ wanting to give him a shoulder to cry on.

Dear Betrayed,

It’s worth consulting an attorney, if you haven’t already, to verify that there isn’t anything that can be done. Whatever the outcome, your demolition is the lesser for it. Those who are left behind won’t have the sweet relief from knowing that they were right, and that he is going to lose it all.

— Husband of the Betrayed.

Dear H:

I set him straight, showing him exactly what I knew. Don’t share personal information with anyone over the phone who you don’t know.

Wolf Street closed on a lackluster day with modest gains and more record highs for the S&P 500 and Nasdaq. The U.S. and China revealed they have reached an initial deal in their long-running trade war. The "Phase 1" agreement means that the U.S. won't impose new tariffs on Chinese goods that had been set to take effect on Dec. 15. Investors' anxiety over the prospects of such an action in the trade war continued to trade Trump and Chinese officials made trade-related statements confirming the agreement. The Wall Street Journal reports signaling that a final deal may be signed as early as next week. The news sent the Dow Jones Industrial Average up 826.25 to 28,135.38.

People were excited about what they were seeing on Wall Street. "What you're seeing is a consolidation, but it isn't a sign of anサイドorual problem, " said Edward Jones investment advisor Jamie Meckler. "You're seeing the traditional investment group at U.S. Bank Wealth Management."

The Dow Jones Industrial Average topped Wall Street's estimates confirming the initial deal. The S&P 500 composite index rose 89.63 to 3,200.49. The NASDAQ, which is heavily weighted toward technology stocks, rose 77.43 to 8,400.01. The Russell 2000 index of smaller company stocks rose 6.84 points, or 0.4%, to 1,717.70. The Russell 2000 index of smaller company stocks rose 6.84 points, or 0.4%, to 1,717.70.
